Althea gets great value from their TenderLink Procurement Portal

Althea is the world's largest provider of managed equipment services and multivendor maintenance, supporting Australian healthcare businesses with end to end procurement activity, turnkey project solutions and managed services in the radiology segment.

With plans to expand the business over the next year, and increase value by bundling the procurement of multiple systems and services, Althea chose to work with illion TenderLink based on positive experiences of team members who'd worked with us in the health sector previously.

"From the day we signed up, Althea was supported with solid on-line education for all the team. The service is value for money, and reduced non-value adding process and activity in my team, freeing up capacity to focus on our business and customers.

The aspect most valued by both Althea and our vendors is the ability to interact through the portal in a way that both supports and promotes probity best practice, with secure equitable vendor collaboration. I highly commend the illion TenderLink portal."

illion Trade Late Payments Report: Will you get paid more quickly this year?

illion's Trade Late Payments Report is the most comprehensive in the market, and our latest report for the 2020 December quarter shows that while the New Zealand economy has remained resilient, the Australian economy has some way to go before businesses can rest easy and conclude the (economic) worst is behind us. Whether businesses will recover entirely in 2021 – particularly as government economic initiatives such as JobKeeper are withdrawn – remains uncertain.

The number of days it takes for overdue bills to get paid is a key litmus test for the state of the economy. This number is improving once again, but to get a more accurate picture of whether you will get paid by your debtors more quickly this year, check out illion's latest Trade Late Payments Report to see what is happening to other businesses like yours.
